

Solving the challenges of high quality and efficiency in legal- and EU translation

As the volume of EU legislation and case-law constantly grows, terminology research will consume more and more effort from the linguists' side in order to comply with the increasing requirements of consistency, accuracy and exact referencing.

With Juremy's cutting-edge functionalities, translation quality can be improved while the time spent on terminology research can be reduced significantly.

What is Juremy

Juremy.com is a unique terminology research tool, providing fast and user-friendly concordance search in official EU documents in all 24 EU languages.

Its gap-filling bilingual search features help linguists achieve high quality in legal and technical translation.

With its reliable database and metadata display, Juremy.com also serves as a verification tool for assessing the accuracy of machine translation output in the post-editing process.

Benefits we deliver

Juremy boosts the efficiency of translation workflows where the research of EU terminology or legal references is essential.

- High quality legal and EU-translation based on reviewed and official terminology references, with clickable links to the original database.
- Hours saved per week on research tasks of a translator, quality coordinator or terminologist.
- Reliable references for verification Search results can be used as references in revision or post-editing.

Results

Based on our statistics, on an average day a translator researching EU terminology looks up 50 terms, multi-word expressions or phrases. Finding the correct term in online databases requires opening separate legal documents one-by-one, resulting in an average of 3 minutes spent on each query. This results in 2.5 hours spent on database research each day.

With Juremy, this time expenditure can be reduced to a few seconds per term. In case of the outlined scenario, Juremy can save a linguist 2 hours a day of terminology research.

Finding the right terms shouldn't be a time-consuming task

Complying with the stringent standards of EU- and legal translation requires extensive terminology research. The laborious task of finding the right and up-to-date terms is essential for maintaining high quality work and client satisfaction.

However, linguists spend 25-30% of their daily capacity looking for the most accurate terms in reference documents.

This tedious and often repetitive work can be replaced with a single search in Juremy.com.

Key added value – why is Juremy unique?

Reliable legal resources

Juremy only searches documents published on the official legal database site of the EU - EUR-Lex, and the EU's IATE termbase.

Research reduced to seconds

Spares hours of work for a translator by reducing time spent on each terminology lookup to only a few seconds.

User-friendly online interface

Clear and intuitive online surface with customizable concordance search, easy-to-use sorting and filtering options.

Up-to-date and accurate terminology

Regularly refreshed database to keep up with the changing EU terms and eliminate the risk of using obsolete terminology.
